Future Farmers' Club—Health Talk—Baseball Schedule—Football Schedule

A meeting of the Future Farms' Club was held last Friday and was called to order by Leader Edward Brown, with thirty-two members present. Plans for a Father and Son Banquet to be held in the near future were discussed.

A talk on "Health" was given by Mr. James Cole. Two weeks ago, Leslie E. McIntire gave a very interesting talk on the general conditions of our country at present.

The Student Council journeyed to Rumford for the Oxford County Student Council convention last Tuesday. Our president, Sam Faver, told the other schools what the Norway Student Council has been doing. We extended them an invitation to hold the next meeting at Norway. This will be in the spring, and we have quite a few more schools to entertain. Those making the trip were Sam Faver, Alice LaFrance, Ina Tervo, Harry Andrews, Lila Emerson and Ruth Pendexter. Miss Winslow represented the faculty.

Mr. Cole and Mr. Rowe attended a meeting of the School Masters held at Rumford, Tuesday.

We came in second at the Winter Carnival held at Bridgton Academy, and our Winter Sports Team will represent Norway at the Carnival to be held at Waterford, Saturday.

The following is the baseball schedule for this spring:

April 30. Norway at Gold Academy.
May 5. Rumford at Norway.
May 6. Norway at Bridgton.
May 7. Norway at South Paris.
May 9. Norway at Mexico.
May 16. Bridgton at Norway.
May 20. Gould at Norway.
May 22. Mexico at Norway.
May 27. South Paris at Norway.
May 29. Norway at Rumford.

The following is the football schedule for the coming fall, 1931:

TAG DAY

W. C. T. U. Needs Funds

Town meeting day, next Monday, will also be Tag Day for the W. C. T. U., conducted by the senior girls of the high school, who will make a house to house canvass with the tags and boxes.

Large contributions will be very acceptable to the W. C. T. U. at this time, as there have been greater demands for the charity work this winter and more funds are badly needed.

Mrs. Nettie Nevers has charge of the Tag Day arrangements.

BIG SMELTS NOT BITING

Instead of assisting in the "Little Hatchet Brigade" at the Weeklies last Monday, P. Y. Pugg and Shortie Faneuf went to East Sebago, smelt fishing. There was probably a hundred other fishermen on the bar that day.

Not a fish did the Norway party get. They lost a portion of bait and broke one hook. Came home filled with glee over the fact that no one got any smelts.

Miss Virginia Weeks and Miss Dorothea Weeks of Everett, Mass., are spending the week with their cousin, Mrs. Mafford Mann.

The Daughters of Veterans will meet in regular session, Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at K. P. Hall. There will be a short program to observe Washington's birthday, and members are asked to have some story or quotation. Further plans will be made for the town meeting dinner.

J. A. Woodman, Ex-Hotel Man

Picture Taken a Few Years Ago By V. Akers of Norway

John A. Woodman, a prominent retired hotel man of Norway, passed away about 10:30 a. m., Friday, Feb. 20, at St. Marie's Hospital in Lewiston, where he been a week for treatment. Mr. Woodman's health was poor for two years and more, but he was taken with a serious illness about two weeks before going to the hospital. His age was 74 years, 2 months and 13 days.

He was born in Bolton, P. Q., Dec. 7, 1856, the son of Richard A. and Sarah A. Woodman. Educated at Magog, P. Q., he came to the States when a young man. On Nov. 9, 1881, he married Elizabeth M. Guptill in Jackson, N. H., and the following year they came to Norway. After three years they opened a hotel in Manchester, N. H., where they remained until 1897, then returned to Norway and bought the Beal's Hotel, which was carried on successfully until 1910, when he retired as a landlord and settled on Deering street.

Mr. Woodman built two cottages on the shore of Lake Rennesseewassee and the Rex Theatre building. As his health failed, he retired from active business and of late years spent much time at the Norway Weary Club, being one of the original members. He had taken much interest in collecting tinfoil for the children's hospital in Springfield, Mass., and several shipments had been sent under his direction.

The deceased was a member of Norway Grange, and the Norway Fish and Game Association.

He leaves his widow, a half sister, Mrs. Howard Corbett and niece, Mrs. William Rose, both of Reading, Mass.

Services were held at Spiller's Funeral Home, Sunday at 1 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Conard B. Rheiner of the Universalist church. The bearers were Garfield Walker, James C. True, Vivian M. Akers and Scott S. Pottle. The body was placed in the tomb at Norway Pine Grove cemetery.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

Twenty-two members of the Norway Board of Trade attended the banquet and annual meeting at the American Legion dining hall, Tuesday evening.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

Pres.—Glenn McIntire.
Treas.—Clayton Heath.
Secretary—Raymond H. Evirs.

There was a lengthy discussion of the Ordway Grove situation and of an article in the town warrant relative to the use of the property by the citizens. The expression of the meeting was for accepting the conditions as outlined in Article 57 of the town warrant, and urging the voters to act favorable on the question.

The annual town meeting dinner will be served at Pythian Hall, Monday. Mrs. Emma H. Swan is chairman of the committee. Dinner will be ready to serve when the town meeting adjourns for the noon hour.

"Kick In," K. of P. Drama

A Real Criminal Story—Presented to Large Audience at Opera House, Wednesday Evening

Attempted gun play, a flash of handcuffs, personal violence and intrigue were brought out in a cross section of the tenderloin or a city underworld during the drama "Kick In" at Norway Opera House, Wednesday evening.

The play, entirely different from other productions, by a cast of Norway talent, had a decidedly criminal complex during the four acts. Two scenes were laid in police headquarters and two acts went up town into the apartments of Chick and Molly Hewes, where criminals were befriended.

Racketeers, diamond dips, dope addicts, tough dames, dicks and hard boiled bulls all featured in this underworld story staged for Pennesseewassee Lodge, K. of P., under the direction of Harold A. Anderson.

The action revolved around a diamond robbery with the police decidedly active in attempts to draw a net around the gang responsible for the job. Fate cheated the law in the death of the thief, leaving a trail of circumstantial evidence pointing strongly to innocent persons, one an ex-convict going straight.

Edwin Emerson was a hard boiled police commissioner, named Garvey, strong on the third degree method, but with one soft spot in his heart, which was touched at the climax of the last act.

Harold A. Anderson went strong in the role of Whip Fogarty, a police officer and ferret. He was officious, unscrupulous and a double-crosser, hoping to gain a promotion. A fight with Chick in the apartments was realistic and met the approval of the audience when Molly gave him a shot with the hypo needle for a knock-out.

Dwight Kilgore impersonated an ex-convict, Chick Hewes, who had done time "up river" but reformed and was going straight. Out of the goodness of his heart, his apartments were open to 'rats' who had done time and after their release needed a friend. This generosity was one link in the chain of circumstantial evidence about the story of the crime reconstructed by the police, that directed the investigation around his visitors from the underworld resorts.

Miss Madelyn Hayden was Molly Hewes, Chick's wife, who kept faith with her husband and eventually impressed her true story of the innocence of the husband on the cast iron commissioner. She was not of the gang, but married into it because of true love.

Clayton Murch impersonated Charlie, a drug addict, and brother of Molly. By some means he came into possession of the stolen necklace but his dope befuddled brain failed to register, when, how, or why. Chick secured the diamonds and was on his way to tell the story and return them to headquarters when captured with the goods.

Mrs. Avis Huff appeared in a light comedy role as Mrs. Halloran, keeper of the apartments, and just Irish all through. She unwittingly fell into the police toils as an accessory after the fact, but was innocent of taking any active part in the plan of spiriting away from her rooms the body of the thief.

Miss Evelyn Gilman was Daisy, daughter of Mrs. Halloran, with strong East side mannerisms and dialect. She also was rounded up in the police net, but they had nothing on her, she being a cool one.

Lucy Cobb portrayed a real gangland queen, known on the police blotter as Memphis Bessie. This dame was sophisticated and performed like a regular one at police headquarters. She knew the ropes about the "squeeze play" worked for evidence and no amount of bulldozing could throw a scare into her worldly wise make-up.

Phoebe Bailey portrayed another gang land sister, named Myrtle Sylvester, who traveled with the "dips" suspected of pulling off the "sparkler" job. She underwent the grilling, but, knowing her stuff, the "bulls" learned little of value.

Stanley Murch was Jack Diggs, a detective who used his head and more humane methods in securing evidence. He made the round up and recovered the necklace, but had a good word for Chick and Molly.

Every part was well cast and presented in great form to the satisfaction of a large audience.

Ned Burnell handled the grease paints and other facial make-up cosmetics.

Specialties between the acts were given by Esther Tower Anderson, the Norway reader. Her first reading was a humorous bit from one Arabella of Carrot Corners. The second was a poor woman's sad lament after trying to roller skate. Both specialties were in costume and greatly enjoyed.

True's Orchestra furnished music during the play and for dancing afterward.

Build Memorial Monument

Honor First Person Who Gave Life in Civil War

It may not be generally known that the first person who gave his life in the Civil War was born in Norway, Maine.

It has been suggested that the local veterans should make something of it in the way of a memorial. It would be a nice thing and would advertise Norway the length and breadth of the land.

What say you of it?

LOWER TAXES

A look at the warrant for the annual town meeting shows no indication that those who manage affairs intend to cut the appropriations to lessen the burdens of the taxpayers. This is to be regretted for it indicates no sympathy whatever for those who find it difficult to pay their taxes. Among the appropriations which might well be dispensed with at this time of business depression are the special instruction on agriculture and the nursing service.

This is a rural community with several fine farms. Practical instruction on the farms among good farmers is of more value than all the theoretical teaching ever invented. Besides many of those who graduate at our high school, enter the Maine State College at Orono where they can obtain all the knowledge of scientific farming they require. In the present depressed condition of business, with the liability that some of the factories may have to shut down for a season, it would seem that this large item of expense might well be cut out.

There was never any justification for a nursing service to be maintained at the town's expense any more than it should bear the expense of providing physicians' attendance and treatment for its citizens. There are several trained and capable nurses of our own, and a large number of our citizens who have received treatment at hospitals, will employ nurses in cases of necessity, whom they know and have confidence in.

In the matter of town affairs, Raymond H. Eastman, by universal selection as a member of the Board of Selectmen, is worthy of the trust the people of the town have put in him. He will make an able and efficient officer. No better selection could be made at this time.

Robert F. Bickford as tax collector and treasurer, has made an admirable and a good officer. He deserves and will doubtless be re-elected. It is well to keep such in office and poor policy to turn them out for the purpose of giving some others a job. —Citizen.

The sun now rises at 6:24 and sets at 5:31, making the day 11 hours and 7 minutes long, with an increase of 2 hours and 2 minutes since the shortest days in December.

Otto Anderson and son, Albert Anderson, and Miss Dorothy Bradford of Wakefield, Mass., were week end guests of Mr. Anderson's daughter and husband, Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Rheiner.

Prince Steward, who was taken to the Central Maine General Hospital, Sunday, underwent an operation for the removal of three hemorrhoids, Wednesday. His condition is reported favorable.

Twenty members of Lake Temple Pythian Sisters attended the meeting of Hamlin Temple, South Paris, Tuesday evening, for a joint memorial service in memory of Supreme Chief Mrs. Lillie Samuels, who passed away in December.

The meeting of the Farm Bureau scheduled for last week, was postponed, owing to the storm and sickness among the members, to Tuesday, March 3rd. The program planned will be carried out and the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Gibby, Paris Street.

The Pennesseewassee 4-H Cooking and Housekeeping Club met at the home of Mrs. Edith Buck this week, for their cake making meeting, and after completing the cake, they made several different kinds of frosting. A social hour with games followed. "Muffins" will be the next subject.

George H. Robertson was called to Westbrook by the death of his sister, Mrs. Edda Andrews, widow of Charles Andrews. She was born in Bethel 80 years ago, but lived most of her life in Westbrook. She leaves two sons, a nephew and brother. Mr. Robertson is the last survivor in a family of eight children.

At the meeting of Norway Lodge, No. 16, I. O. O. F., Tuesday evening, March 3, there will be important business come before the lodge to be voted on. The lodge has received and accepted an invitation from Oxford Lodge of North Waterford to visit them, Wednesday evening, March 4th. Transportation will be provided and arrangements made at the next meeting.

The Norway Woman's Club, for its meeting, March 3rd, will have a musical afternoon, at Miss Elizabeth Klain's studio, at The Falls, which is sure to be a delightful program, and is arranged by Miss Klain. The bus will make a trip after the return from the Paris trip at 2:20, which will accommodate many members living in the upper village. The bus will make a return trip after the recital.

From An Old Voter

The Coming Town Meeting

It never has been my habit to interfere with the local arrangements of our town, as to officers. It is well as a rule to leave these matters to the good judgment of the voters and the results have been good. If not, not enough out of the way to do any harm. With these remarks, I would like to have the voters, when choosing our road commissioners to look to those who have given us such good work in the past. Do not make any change. A good man, who has proved himself is the man to keep. The new man is always a problem.

Nothing in these remarks is to be thought of as anything against any candidate who has shown up. Only business common sense tells one to keep those on the job that have always given perfectly satisfactory service. Mistakes will be made by all. "Who makes none, does nothing." "Who makes too many loses his job." Our street commissioner has made so few, I doubt if anyone can mention them. Lets keep the old board if they will accept. Wm. C. Leavitt.

Superior Court

February Term Closed Tuesday Noon

Mrs. Sanni Hinden of East Waterford was found not guilty of the murder of John Kaustinen, also of Waterford, as charged in an indictment by the grand jury. The case terminated Thursday night of last week, when the traverse jury returned a verdict of acquittal.

Jurors out ten minutes returned a verdict of guilty of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor against Mrs. Jennie K. MacDonald of Rumford, Monday. She was sentenced to a fine of $200 and costs and two months in jail with six months additional in default of bail.

Deputies Almon Grover, Philip Lessard and Charles Huff for the State said that on Dec. 26, they entered the apartment of Mrs. MacDonald at Rumford and seized a half pint bottle of alcohol, which she was hiding behind her back. She was ordered into municipal court the next morning, but never came and when Huff went to find her, she had left town. She was later arrested in Auburn.

The officers admitted that the three other bottles found were in a register on the fourth floor and that only the half pint was found in her apartment on the second. Two men were in the apartment at the time and one of them who had been drinking, was asking for the bottle seized.

Mrs. MacDonald was the only defense witness. She said that at the time she had two boarders and one roomer in her lodging house and that a boarder owned the liquor. It was on the sideboard when she heard the officers coming, she backed over to it, took it in her hand and was holding it when they took it from her. She explained her disappearance during the night as due to her bewilderment, not knowing what to do next as she had never been arrested before or in any difficulties with the police.

Friday morning a civil case was called that being James J. Brennan of Auburn vs. Charles Gill of Rumford. This was a suit for alienation of the affections of the plaintiff's wife, Eunice Brennan. The Brennans, following some hard luck in the loss of roadside camps, which they had run for a time, broke up housekeeping, and for some more than a year, Mr. Brennan has been working in several different places and Mrs. Brennan has been living with her grandparets, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Ellis at Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. Brennan were married in 1913, and have a daughter, Ferne, seventeen years of age.

The writ in the case, and a list of specifications which were filed by the plaintiff, allege undue familiarity of the defendant with Mrs. Brennan during the last part of the year, 1929, and the year 1930. Evidence was introduced to show that Gill and Mrs. Brennan were together much, and in one instance it is charged that Mr. Brennan and another man, looking in at the window of the Ellis house at Canton, saw Gill and Mrs. Brennan in an illegal act. The allegations of the plaintiff were strongly denied by the defence.

F. A. Morey of Lewiston was counsel for Mr. Brennan and Albert Beliveau of Rumford for the defendant.

The case occupied the attention of the court on Friday and Saturday. Late Saturday afternoon after being out less than half an hour the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

Arthur Petrie of Rumford had pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny. He was sentenced to a charge of larceny. He was sentenced to six months in jail, but sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for two years, to report to John H. Dennis, probation officer.

Tony DiConzi of Rumford, who had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, was sentenced to the men's reformatory at South Windham.

John Paul DeGrasse of Mexico, who had pleaded guilty to two indictments, one for breaking and entering, and the other for breaking out and escaping from jail, was sentenced on one indictment to not less than three years and not more than six years in state prison, and the other was placed on file.

Big Birthday Party

Universalist Church Held Party For All Attending Last Thursday Evening

The public supper and entertainment at the Universalist Church, Thursday evening, was a very happy success. The supper tales were arranged in a novel fashion, to carry out the "birthday" idea, and the tables were decorated to represent the twelve months of the year. Those attending were seated at the table of their birth month. January's decorations were a snow man and snow balls. Miss Caroline Downing was the hostess; February, with Mrs. Maude Decoster, as hostess, and gowned as Martha Washington, was decorated with a picture of Geo. Washington, and the centerpiece was a tree or log (jelly roll) with the hatchet driven into the trunk. March carried out the St. Patrick idea and was all in green with the whole set of green glass dishes, shamrocks, candles, mints, etc. Mrs. Izah T. Sanborn was the hostess and her gown was in green. Mrs. Marion Holt was waitress and she was also dressed in green.

April, the month of pussywillows, bunny rabbits and early flowers, carried out the idea in lavender color scheme; Mrs. Adeline Klain was the hostess; May, the month of the May Pole dances, was in pink, and had the May Pole for the center piece. Mrs. Anna Rheiner was hostess: June, the month of roses, was in pink, and the centerpiece was of roses. Mrs. Bessie Hill was hostess; July was typical of the holiday, and a cannon cracker graced the center table, and the favors were small flags. Mrs. Mary Cole was hostess.

August, with Mrs. Harriet Waite as hostess, had decorations of ox-eyed daisies, and on each napkin was a "diving girl." September, opening with Labor Day, had a doll busy at the wash-tub, demonstrating "Labor." A procession of animals, "blue ribboners from the Oxford County Fair," and Sunflowers at each plate, carried out the idea of the month of Fairs, and fall flowers. Miss Carrie Tucker was hostess. October, the month of the falling leaves, had for a centerpiece, branch from a tree with only a few dead leaves left on. The color scheme was in green. Mrs. Retta Jackson was the hostess.

November was resplendent with Thanksgiving decorations. Turkeys, for the centerpiece, and turkeys for favors; pumpkin baskets filled with apples, and red crepe paper decorations. Mrs. Eva Jackson, as hostess, wore a gown picturing her as the Puritan Maiden. December was decorated in the Christmas colors and the centerpiece was a Christmas bell. Miss Clara Adkins was hostess. Many of the tables were lighted with candles.

The hostess at each table was responsible for the decorations, and for a birthday cake. There were twelve handsome cakes, and these were cut at the proper time. Some of the tables had an overflow, while others had some chairs to spare. The entertainment followed and opened with a duo by Miss Marion Haskell, violin, and Mrs. Ruth Akers Woodman, piano, who played two fine selections. The stunts for the various months followed.

January was "A nice little girl with some noise," and Miss Caroline Downing, clad in ski costume, traveling on skis, sung the Jingle Bells song; February was a tableau, "A Girl of Yesterday and a Girl of Today." Mrs. Walter Pride, as a framed picture represented the first, and Miss Clara Adkins the second, while Mrs. Eva Jackson read appropriate poems.

March, was a "little bit of Irish" and Mrs. Marion Holt, as the Irish washwoman, doing her Monday wash, hung her clothes on the line, while Mrs. Eva Jackson read the story. April was two charades acted by participants at the April supper table. Fore (four) Swear and Crib-age were the words. May was "Introducing Charlie" by Rev. Mr. Rheiner, who gave a lively ventriloquist conversation with his companion "Charlie" and at the close of the stunt, "Charley" was taken about the vestry while he sang.

June was the scene of a June wedding. Mrs. Anna Rheiner played the wedding march while the wedding couple, George and Bessie Hill, entered the stage and met the clergyman (Frank H. Beck) who performed a pantomime ceremony. July was missing. August was "Harriet" and Mrs. Harriett Waite read a poem written by a "flapper" who wanted to be naughty, but nice, and the reply from the lawyer, with a bit of advice.

For September, Mrs. Mafford Mann gave a vocal solo and as the Star Spangled Banner was written in September, all joined in singing the first verse.

October, the month of the falling leaves was expressed in the poem read by Mrs. Retta Jackson on "Falling, Falling Leaves." November showed the Puritan Maiden (Marion Holt) seated before her spinning wheel, reading, and as she read she heard the Doxology sung (Mrs. Marguerite McIntire). The story was read by Mrs. Eva Jackson. December stunt was the singing of the Christmas song, "Silent Night, Holy Night" by Mrs. Anna Rheiner and Miss Clara Adkins, behind the curtain. The hostesses at the several tables were responsible for some stunt for her month.

The one act comedy, "Joint Owners in Spain" was presented by Mrs. Harriet Waite, Mrs. Anna Rheiner, Mrs. Marguerite McIntire and Miss Clara Adkins, in a laughable playlet directed by Rev. Mr. Rheiner. The whole evening was very enjoyable.

DELAYS IN TRAFFIC

Evidence that the public is becoming tired of spending large slices of its precious time sitting under red traffic lights while nothing moves by in front is cropping up in many sections of the country, according to reports compiled recently by traffic experts.

Some of these engineers believe the real impetus to the unrest is being given by recent publication of data announced by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. Traffic congestion and delays are causing an annual national loss of $2,000,000,000, according to the conference report. Secretary of Commerce Lamont followed this up with a statement that the damage "may be equal to our annual expenditures for the construction and maintenance of traffic facilities."

George E. Hamlin, chief engineer of maintenance of the Connecticut State Highways Department, also is quoted as follows: "Traffic is becoming more critical and intolerant of unnecessary delay. This is a definite cost to the community which more often far exceeds the price of the remedy. The public in general has signified its desire for delay reduction and its willingness to accept the necessary financial responsibility. To those in command, the opportunity offered is unlimited.

Editorially, the Utica Observer-Dispatch deplores present methods pointing to "cities and villages which put up lights which hold up traffic exactly as though it were halted by a traffic jam. Signal lights are highly valuable where they regulate traffic. Where they tie up motor cars constantly, they create artificially the delays and costs of heavy traffic. Traffic lights should be fitted and operated according to conditions."

In a study made by engineers of Yale University, it was estimated that the city of Hartford, Conn., is losing about $18,000 per day from traffic delays. The estimates place New York City's loss in the neighborhood of a million dollars daily.

Another traffic expert made, in part, the following statement: "Traffic control is years behind both motor car and highway development. The automotive industry has eliminated waste of time and energy to give us the splendid automobiles of today—and our cities make them the victims of the lost time and lost motion beyond computation."

A statement made by a nationally known traffic authority to the effect that signals should move traffic and not stop it, gives the correct aspect of the entire problem.

Chicks should be hatched early. Those hatched before May first start laying when eggs are at a premium and usually lay better.

One of the most common causes of fire in farm dwellings is the defective chimney, including flues and stovepipe connections. Walls of chimneys should be built of brick, stone, reinforced concrete, or hollow units of clay or concrete. Walls not more than 30 feet high should be at least 4 inches thick for brick or reinforced concrete, 8 inches for hollow tile, and 12 inches for stone. Use only sound, hard-burned brick for brick chimneys. Reinforce concrete chimneys to prevent cracking. Don't use quartz gravel in the concrete. Farmers' Bulletin 1590-F, which may be procured from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., gives further directions for constructing chimneys so as to eliminate the danger of fire from this source.

KEZAR FALLS

The Kezar Falls National Bank was incorporated April 2nd, 1910, the incorporators being G. W. Towle, Allen Garner, Orman L. Stanley, Edward R. Bachelder and Dr. F. G. Devereaux. The charter was issued Aug. 8th, 1910, George W. Towle served as president until his death, 1917, when Allan Garner became president until 1925, when he, too, passed away. His son, W. A. Garner, becoming his successor. O. L. Stanley has served as cashier since the bank was incorporated and as vice president since 1917. G. B. Stanley was elected as assistant cashier in 1916 and has served since that time. The present directors are W. A. Garner, O. L. Stanley, S. B. Stanley, W. O. Merrifield and Fred C. Small. During the present year the building has been practically reconstructed and stands a credit to good workmanship, good material and an ornament to its surroundings. The bank occupies half of the ground floor of the Stanley block and was open to public inspection, Saturday, the 21st, from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. Many people availed themselves of the opportunity and commented favorably on the appearance. The mahogany finish, the carpeted floors, plate glass windows, abundant draperies, chairs, tables, desks and the large baskets of lovely flowers sent in by other banks, made an almost unbelieveable transformation and left nothing more to be desired in the way of equipment.

Monday evening, Feb. 23d, the Kiwanis Club motored to the New Lincoln, Cornish, taking their wives with them, enhancing their enjoyment as well as numbers in the club. They were all well pleased to greet the guests from surrounding towns, Norway, Windham, Steep Falls, Waterville and Limerick, being represented. Rev. Powell A. Davies was the speaker of the evening and the "Mother of Parliament", his subject. He was an able and interesting speaker and failed to see much difference between the "Commons and the House of Lords" or the "House of Representatives and Congress". Perhaps you have heard of him before, as the good Samaritan who opened the church to those exposed to all "outdoors". A gentleman by the name of Gillepsie aided in the singing, which took an an added piquance from being new, to most of the company. "The Three Jacks", "Memories" and "I Want What I Want When I Want It". He enlivened the evening with several other selections and as usual the singing and eating kept each other in fine record. The supper was good, the company congenial and the evening much enjoyed by all the company.

ACCIDENTS OF MENTAL ORIGIN

Ninety per cent of accidents are of mental origin, according to Dr. Harold S. Hulbert of the Department of Mental and Nervous Diseases, University of Illinois.

In an address before the National Safety Council, Dr. Hulbert explained that these accidents are the result not of insanity or mental incompetence, but of thoughtlessness or carelessness.

This authority says that a person who is comfortable in mind and body, adjusted to his working and domestic life, and is not ill, perplexed, discontented or fatigued stands but a small chance of becoming the causative factor in an accident.

On the other hand, anger, fatigue, surprise and other such factors are the causes of many accidents, says Dr. Hulbert.

We cannot, of course, cure such emotional disturbances as anger and surprise, nor can we offset fatigue, but the public should understand these causes of accidents and guard against them. A worker who grows tired should become more careful because of it. An automobile driver who is suffering from some slight illness should watch his driving more carefully than when he is in good health. Once we manage to exert some control over the "mental hazard," our accident record will begin to decrease.

MAINE'S DESERT A MYSTERY

Hundreds of persons have visited Freeport's Desert of Maine this past summer and its fame has been spread throughout the country by motorists from every state in the Union. While the old Freeport Sand Farm, as it was locally known, had been a favorite haunt of boys on their Saturday holidays, and of occasional motor parties, these were almost wholly Freeport folk.

After some publicity visitors began to seek this most interesting spot until now it really is one of Maine's truly notable "showplaces". The treacherous two miles of clay road in from the state highway has been widened, gravel added and made comfortably passable except in very wet weather. A little more than half a century ago there was no Desert of Maine—just an ordinary farm.

Then the sand began to pour up from some mysterious source and spread, until today nearly 100 acres have been laid waste. Vegetation has been killed and verdant fields and fragrant forests have been obliterated.

Yet the Desert of Maine is impressively beautiful. No adequate description may be given in a few words. It must be seen to be appreciated. Trees twenty feet in height are buried in drifting sand and a spring of water has been lost under and powdery material which is piled in dunes everywhere. Old residents recall the days when that farm was productive, but a small spot of sand appeared and commenced to drift with the wind. As the unexplained phenomenon spread, shrubs and fences disappeared, then tall firs and spruces were enveloped, leaving only their tops visable. In time nature made a complete change in the topography with all familiar objects gone forever.

The principal trouble with love at first sight is that second sight does not come until after marriage.

CANDY ETIQUETTE

No formal luncheon, dinner or tea is complete without candy. In fact the serving of confectionery at social functions has become so general that authorities on etiquette are coming forward with advice concerning the right kind of sweets to provide for your guests and the proper method of serving them.

One well-known authority says that at a small dinner bon-bon dishes full of candy should be placed at the four corners of the table, where they are easily accessible to all guests and passed around at the end of the meal. The candy should stay on the table throughout the meal because when properly selected it adds color to the scheme of table decoration. It is important, however, to choose candies that fit the color scheme, and this is an easy task because candy nowadays comes in almost every conceivable hue, shade and tint.

As a rule small pieces are preferred. Peppermint and assorted chocolates are the favorites for table service, but in this respect the hostess can serve almost any kind of candy she chooses, provided it is good candy.

KILL THOSE FLIES

Before long the first fly will come crawling out of his winter's hiding place. It will not be a very active fly. It will not try to bite you, nor will it buzz angrily about your ears. It will be the most friendly, tame fly one could wish to have for a playmate.

But this particular fly is worth a great deal dead. It is the head of a family of millions of flies, or it will be if you allow it to live.

Kill the first fly you see, and the second and the third. If every one would do this, we would have fewer flies this coming summer than we have ever had before. Give the early flies a start and they soon get beyond control. Swat them when they are scarce and they will remain scarce.

The great eclipse of 1931

To the motorist thinking of buying a new car now, the attention the entire industry is giving to Free Wheeling means a great deal. Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln, noted for engineering excellence and conservatism, have adopted—intact and unmodified—the same Free Wheeling mechanism that is built into Studebaker's three great Eights and brilliant new Six.

Free Wheeling has captured public interest as thoroughly as it has captured the hitherto wasted power of momentum.

Highway commissioners and safety directors throughout the country have driven Free Wheeling Studebakers and then voiced approval of Free Wheeling with positive gear control as a new measure of safety to driver and public.

In Free Wheeling, for the first time in the history of the automobile, Studebaker has released momentum and made it serve as an instrument of economy and power. Free Wheeling with positive gear control enables the engine to deliver five miles of travel on four miles of effort.

You will do well if you make sure that your new car is a Free Wheeling Studebaker. It will save you substantial amounts on gasoline, oil, tires and repairs.

The cars of today that do not offer Free Wheeling are cars of the old order even though they may be spoken of as new. Base your new car choice on first-hand knowledge—ask your Studebaker dealer to take you Free Wheeling.

All Studebaker cars—the President, Commander and Dictator Eights, as well as the brilliant new low-priced Studebaker Six—have Free Wheeling with positive gear control. Studebaker cars are priced, f. o. b. factory, from $795 to $2600.

MY DEAR DOLLAR

Author Unknown

Dear, Dollar, 'tis of thee
Author of liberty—
Of thee we sing.
For this our fathers died,
That now in pomp and pride,
Mightiest o'er all preside,
With thy glad ring.

Almighty Dollar, thee,
Without which none are free,
Thy name we love.
Dearer than templed hills,
Dearer than all that thrills,
To us are Dollar Bills
All else above.

Let discord swell the breeze
And (w)ring from all the trees,
Thy greedy song.
Let servile tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Sing all for mammon's sake—
The sound prolong.

Dear father's God—to thee,
Author of liberty,
How dare we sing,
When freedom's bought and sold?
How dare we be so bold,
While o'er all things, Gold,
Reigneth as King?

The annual Small Schools Tournament run by Jordan High School of Lewiston, Maine, will be held in the Lewiston Armory on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7.

AN EDUCATION

The "Talkies and the Movies" occupy an important place in the life of our community. They are not merely "entertainment"; they are carrying a large part of the burdens of homes; the outlet for monotonous lives; an inexpensive entertainment also; better in most cases than the old-time musical comedy charging prices that were frequently ten times the cost of admission to the current "Talkie".

The sociological importance of this new movement is enormous. We almost forget that this has come along within a year. The electrical engineer has taken charge of our entertainment. Called on to produce a marvel, he created the photo-electric cell. A child, living in a village, never leaving it, can see and hear the whole world; become familiar with kings, potentates, presidents; hear the great men and women talk and see them before them. They view the news of the world pictorially. They see marvels of science unfold; they watch great sporting events; they see armies and navies and a sky full of air-craft. The village-child of 12 years knows more today by way of the movies and talkies than the child of 30 years ago learned in all his life.

We hardly appreciate this great social change for us common-folk. Amazing reproductions of the operatic-stage and of the speaking stage are on their way. There is not six dollars worth of difference on a ticket to a seat, between the "all-talking reproduction" of Rio Rita and the acted version. The same artistry prevails in its presentation at Poland Corner, Me., and in the Roxy Theatre at New York or anywhere else. It is identical at all places. It is more colorful on the screen; has a greater precision and is quite as musical.

Greater things are coming. We are to see people and objects soon, not as on a flat-surface; but as we see them in the third dimension, in life—as one saw them in the old fashioned "steroscopic" picture, rounded and solidified. Color is rapidly improving. Tone reproduction is approaching perfection.

The theatre is a great part of life, for many people. It is their dreamland; their other world, away from care and toil. The responsibility on the theatre is not merely to fill the house; it is to delight; educate; culturalize and create new vision of beauty. We expect to go to the theatre some day to see Shakespeare in the talkies and to see masterpieces of drama done as well or better than we ever saw them on the speaking stage.

COMMON AILMENT

Forgetting to think is a prevalent ailment the world over, and in this respect our own community is no exception to the general rule. It is of daily occurrence right in our own midst.

It is not the big things of life that we forget, for our nature is such that important matters are more indelibly impressed upon our minds and therefore the more certain of receiving attention at the proper time.

But it is the little things that slip our minds, promises lightly made and soon forgotten, duties that are left unperformed because we simply forget to think.

Stored away in the vaults of our banks are thousands and thousands of dollars drawing interest for various good citizens when they by rights should be credited to the accounts of other people.

Our merchants, doctors, lawyers, carpenters, practically everybody in fact, have small accounts due them here and there because people have forgotten to pay, have forgotten even to think.

It is fifty cents here, a dollar there, or two or five, small in the individual accounts, but enormous in the aggregate. If all of these accounts were collected together and one man became responsible for the combined sum, he would never forget to give it consideration, regardless of the extent of his wealth. It would be too important to overlook, too vital to forget.

A certain merchant has thousands of dollars on his books in insignificant amounts. The people who owe him these sums are not deadbeats, for they are among the best class of substantial citizens. He is not worrying over eventually getting the money because he knows from long experience with these people that his accounts are as good as gold—with one exception. The gold in hand would enable him to increase the size of his stock and sell more goods and thereby earn greater dividends on his investment. But wholesalers and manufacturers require their money on the dot, and a hundred or a thousand small accounts due the merchant are not considered in the light of an asset by the men from whom he buys his goods.

If each of the men who owe these small accounts would take the trouble to think, they would rush in one great throng to pay up these small bills, and the merchant would then be in position to do even better by them in the future. But they forget to think, and their money remains in bank and they continue to draw interest on it while the merchant patiently waits for his due. And this merchant is only one of the many.

THE MENACE OF THE "PUT-PUTS"

With the first suggestions of warm weather there have undoubtedly come to many persons thoughts of the calm spot near a fresh-water pond or secluded harbor where they might leave behind for a brief spell the din, the noise and the rush of modern communities. Such have, perhaps, been envisaging a spot removed from a traveled road and away from honk of car or screech of engine. Until a few years ago this was, indeed, a mental picture in which one could find comfort for many months in advance of actual realization. But that was before the unrestricted use of the motorboat, under the control of restless individuals who find delight in chasing at mad speed over the ripples of any navigable body of water, played havoc with the quiet of the lakeside.

The ever-spreading invasion of these boats has become a menace to every country house that borders on a lake, river or pond. There is, of course, nothing inherently wrong with a motorboat. In its place it affords an economical and convenient mode of transportation, but its place is not along the shores of placid ponds or on the sylvan reaches of inland streams which constitute the "front yards" of homes whose chief value is the peace and quietude they afford. The jaunty little "put-puts" are all right, but those who use them need to develop a code of manners. Unless they do their victims may develop a code of laws drastically restricting their activities.

New England Health Workers will convene at the Eastland Hotel in Portland for four days, begining April 20th, at the Ninth New England Health Institute. More than fifty leading health experts will address the group. Teachers, dentists, dental-hygienists, members of town and state boards of health, private and public nurses, hospital superintendents, dietitians, public health officers and private physicians from all over New England will be in attendance. The purpose of the convention is to post physicians, nurses, and the general public on the latest scientific developments in the field of medicine and sanitation, and to afford opportunity of consultation and exchange of ideas and experiences among the workers.

ALBANY

Sylvia Ann Dresser

Early Tuesday morning, February 10, Mrs. Sylvia Beckler Dresser, widow of the late Jacob Dresser, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ruby Paine. Mrs. Dresser was one of the older residents of Berlin and was born in Albany, Me., April 5, 1842, and was 88 years and 10 months old. Her death resulted from old age and it is thought that the death of her son-in-law, Louville Paine, the last of the week hastened her death as she had been in her usual health.

Mrs. Dresser was the daughter of John Beckler and Abigail Cole Beckler, she spent her girlhood days in her native town and in 1859 was united in marriage to Jacob Dresser, they lived in Albany until 1869, then went to South Paris where they lived until 1877 when they moved to Berlin.

During the past seven years Mrs. Dresser has been confined to her wheel chair and all during that time she had always been sweet and gracious, never murmuring or complaining, but ever cheerful, it was a pleasure for her loved ones to be near her and to minister unto her and do everything for her comfort and happiness. She retained her faculties and was keenly interested in the news of the day, she was possessed of a good clear judgment and was a brilliant and entertaining conversationalist. She was of a deeply religious nature and early in life became interested in the Universalist church, she was broad in her sympathy and belief. One of her strong characteristics was her love of her family, neighbors and old time friends.

Mrs. Dresser is survived by her children, Lorin A. Dresser of Berlin, N. H., at present in Canada. Ruby D. Paine, and John M. Dresser, also of Berlin.

INCREASE IN SCHOOL COSTS

We hear much about school costs. Some say they have increased too rapidly. Others say we should be expending more than we are for the education of our children. Who is right? Let us examine some of the facts.

It is true that school costs are greater than before the war. What are the reasons for this increase? First, attendance has increased approximately 70 percent since 1914. Since we have not found a way to educate children by machinery, an increase in attendance involves a proportionate increase in school expenditure. Of course, we could have prevented the growth in costs due to increased attendance, by allowing fewer children to attend school or by forcing them out of school at an earlier age. Most of us, however, would question whether such a policy would mean a real saving in the long run.

Second, school costs have increased because the dollar buys less. The 1928 dollar had 58 cents purchasing power when compared with that of 1914. The dollar's loss in purchasing power applies whether one is buying a meal, an overcoat or schooling for a child. It has been necessary, therefore, to increase the number of dollars spent for each child in school. Could this increase have been prevented? Only by lowering the quantity or quality of schooling provided. Less well-trained teachers could have been employed. We could have constructed school buildings which were more inflammable and less healthful. Most of us would question whether such practices would mean a real saving.

When these two factors are evaluated—increased attendance and the depreciated dollar—most of the increase in school costs is accounted for. The typical school board now has approximately 30 percent. more purchasing power with which to buy education for each child in school than it had in 1914. How does this 30 percent. increase in what might be called the "standard of educating" compare with the increase in our "standard of living"? Since 1914 the purchasing power of the average income of all gainfully occupied persons in the United States has increased approximately 35 percent. Therefore, the increase in average income has been slightly more rapid than the cost of keeping a child in school. What does this fact mean in relation to school costs? Have they increased more than they should? Answer the question for yourself.

One answer which has been given is of interest. The National Industrial Conference Board, a research agency supported by a number of great business organizations, recently investigated the whole question. Their investigation may be summed up in the following two sentences quoted from their report: "The increase in school expenditures measured in relation to school needs has not been excessive. The annual increase was less than two percent."

ROAD-SIDE FORESTS FOR NEW HAMPSHIRE

The Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests has announced a program of establishing a thousand forest reservations along the highways of New Hampshire. Twenty-two such tracts have already been acquired by gift or purchase, and the state has 33 more bordering the highway.

In the recent report sent to its members, the Society called attention to the fact that it will assume the management of the Flume this year, the income to be used for improvements in Franconia Notch and for forest work throughout New Hampshire. It is hoped to establish in the Lost River Reservation an industrial exhibit, where during the summer months various handicrafts will be operated, particularly the making of skis, snow-shoes, axe handles, benches, baskets and various products of wood, maple products, and rug making.

During 1929 exactly 1,004 acres were added to the Mount Monadnock reservation. The Society now owns 3,167 acres on Mount Monadnock, 943 acres on Mount Sunapee, and 521 acres on Mount Kearsarge.

The Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests has been largely responsible for the acquisition of Crawford and Franconia Notches by the state, Pinkham Notch by the federal government, the inclusion of the Waterville or Greeley Pond Notch in the White Mountain National Forest, and itself owns title to the Kinsman Notch.

The World bequeaths to readers privileges for almost nothing, that once was unattainable.

IN OTHER DAYS

Some folks can remember back forty odd years
When eggs were three dozen for a quarter and milk was 3c a quart.
The butcher gave liver for the cat and treated the kids to bologna.
When the hired girl was satisfied with $2 a week and did the washing.
When women did not powder or paint, smoke, play bridge or bob their hair.
When the men wore boots, whiskers, chewed tobacco, spit on the sidewalk, worked eleven hours a day and never went on a strike.
When kerosene lamps and photo albums in the parlor were luxuries.
When no one was operated on for appendicitis or bought monkey glands to restore their youth.
When the youngsters had some work to do, walked miles to school, wore cotton flannels, were satisfied with what they had and minded their parents.
When folks lived to a good old age, and when they did die an automobile had nothing to do with it.

The geometry text books of our school days demonstrated to us that "a straight line is the shorest distance between two points".

Geometry and modern merchandising have little in common . . . but this particular theorem does apply to advertising in modern business.

Shortcuts in the cost of selling show up immediately on the profit statement . . . and they frequently become evident to the consumer in lower merchandise prices.

A merchant who dispatches his messages to the consumer through newspaper advertising is cutting the corners on expense . . . he is following "the straight line" . . . the "shortest distance between the two points," himself and the consumer.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

Dennis Pike brought us a key, Thursday, saying that he found it on the street and thought someone might be here looking for it.

Don Seitz: "Am going out to Chatham, N. J., tonight, to uplift Dr. Shipler's congregation apropos of George Washington's birthday. The 'Little Hatch' will be my topic."

Hazel E. Conary, a candidate for town treasurer and tax collector at the March meeting, Monday, has been asked where her office would be located should she be elected. Mrs. Conary informs us her headquarters would be in the office at the Jackson-Greenlaw Co. store, where she is bookkeeper.

William M. Sanborn of Stow and Lyman Meader of North Fryeburg were callers on the Advertiser, last Thursday. They came across country by auto and said the roads were all right. "Old Bill" is a brick mason and our Stow correspondent.

Here is what one subscriber writes us: "Dear Sir: Here's a piece to print in your paper, if it's worth the space—also $1.50 for the continuation of your paper. It's like being without your shirt to be without the Advertiser."

Vernard Avery called in Saturday morning, bringing a large dead robin in his hand and said, "Ward Hutchins found this robin this morning when sweeping off his piazza; it was against the door jamb and its breast was warm when he found him."

Don B. Partridge of Norway, representative elect from this district, went to Washington last week, to look around a bit and get waywise. He writes from Hotel Continental as follows:

"Thought it would be of interest to you to know that one of the clerks here at the hotel, Mr. Smith, immediately upon my arrival, introduced himself and said that he was glad to welcome me as a guest, as he would now have an opportunity to see the Norway Advertiser. He is a New Hampshire boy and is well acquainted, not only in Norway, but through Stoneham and Lovell. You can bet he will have the opportunity to see the paper!!

"Poking over a bound volume of the Universalist Union, published in New York, June 11, 1845," writes Don C. Seitz, "I find this item, which will be of special interest to Mrs. Izah Tenney Sanborn of Norway and her cousin, Mrs. Izah Allen of Southern Pines, N. C.: New Universalist Paper—The Rev. T. J. Tenney of Norway, Me., has issued the first number of a new small paper, dated by way of anticipation, June 14, 1845, entitled 'Religious Instructor'. It will be published once a month, at 50 cents a year, money in all cases in advance. We have no doubt of Mr. Tenney's ability to make a good paper. As to the judiciousness of the experiment he must judge."

I think I have a bound volume of the publication somewhere in my wilderness of books.

We have a letter from a man in St. Petersburg, Fla., who writes us and asks us a few questions. The letter says:

"As a former resident of Norway and a quite constant reader of your paper, I feel justified in asking a favor—re. Your news from "Newry", as per enclosed clipping from your issue of Jan. 30. Would you please get in touch with your "Newry" correspondent and try to learn the name (if any) of the "man" mentioned in the first item. I suppose there is no question, but that the sex is correct?

"I feel quite intrigued, and will scan future issues of your paper with some anxiety for additional information about the poor "man". Remembering your good nature and sporting blood of former years, which I trust and believe you still retain, I expect my request will be granted, so I thank you now, my dear Mr. Sanborn, and all others who may contribute to the solution of this mystery.

"While I am at it I must ask you to explain to me (if you please) what is meant by "squares" as per last item of submitted clipping. It might be bacon squares, on the first leg of their journey to the Hawaiian Islands as far as I know.

"Will you (very quietly) inform me just what brand or variety of square is intended. I should know, of course, without asking, but I admit that I don't. And in extenuation of my standing in the present matter will submit the fact, that on April 1st, next (provided I am still hanging on) I will observe my 72nd consecutive birthday."

The two items referred to read thus in the Newry items:

There is a man with a team hauling pulp wood for P. M. Walker and is boarding at S. P. Davis'.

Charles Tuell is hauling squares for Carl Hakala to Bethel station to be sent by car to Lincoln.

Will our Newry friends help us?

Julian Brown, who has been housed several weeks, was out for the first time, Monday.

Mrs. G. Leon Curtis has been spending a few days with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Seabury, Yarmouth. She returned home, Sunday.

Louis H. Velleux will be at the Norway Postoffice, Wednesday and Thursday, March 4 and 5, to assist the Tax Payers in making out their tax returns.

Mrs. Frank P. Knight Jr., of West Paris is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Foster, while Mr. Knight is on a business trip to Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Lena Cummings is having two weeks vacation from her work at the Z. L. Merchant Store and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. James D. Billings at Bryant Pond.

Walter A. Ridlon, brother of C. F. Ridlon, the groceryman, was a visitor here for a day this week. Walter sold the home place in Turner to the power company that put in the big dam. He is now living in Danville.

The D. A. R. meeting will be held Wednesday evening, March 4, with the hostess, Mrs. Jane Foster. Roll call, quotations of Theodore Roosevelt. Program paper, "Theodore Roosevelt as a Naturalist", by Mrs. Lena Andrews.

Kiwanis Club met this week, Thursday, at the Norway Grange hall with dinner furnished by Grange members. The speaker was Walter M. Tapley, Esq., county attorney for Cumberland County. He was unable to be here last week as planned.

The Veranda Club met at the home of Mrs. Maxim and daughter, Thursday evening, Feb. 19. Owing to the storm, there was a small attendance. The evening was spent socially by those present. The hostess served lunch. The next meeting will be with Alice Blaquiere.

St. Elmo Lodge, K. of P. of Mechanic Falls will hold a Twilight Ball at Red Men's Hall at Mechanic Falls, Friday evening, Feb. 27, and they will also put on a minstrel show, Thursday and Friday evening, March 5 and 6. A special feature will be the Dufresne Trio.

The Sunday school will convene at 11:10.

The Junior Y. P. C. U. will meet at 4 p. m. Phyllis Hayden will lead. At 7:30 p. m., Glenn R. McIntire will present an illustrated dramatic talk on "The Man Who Played God". This is a powerful story full of tenderness and beauty showing how one's afflictions may be the means to great service for humanity. The lecture will be illustrated by more than fifty beautifully colored slides.

On Wednesday, March 4, there will be a meeting of the church organization to make arrangements for the annual meeting on Maunday Thursday at which time there will be a roll call, election of officers and celebration of the Lord's Supper.

Rummage sale at the Buick Sales Room, Saturday, Feb. 28, for the benefit of the Sunday school. A large lot of second hand books will be among the many articles for sale. Articles may be left at the James Smith Shoe Store prior to Friday noon, and after that, at the Buick Sales Room. Glenn McIntire, Mrs. Harriet Waite and Mrs. Mae Hutchins are the committee in charge, and the proceeds from the sale will go towards finishing off more class rooms.

On Thursday, March 5th, a public supper and three-act farce, "The Adventures of Grandpa" will be sponsored by the Universalist Ladies' Circle and Young Peoples' Christian Union. The cast is as follows:

Montgomery Ray ("Monte")..Rexford Waite
Tod Hunter .....Sam Favor
Otis Hammoerhead ("Grandpa").....
..... Francis Hutchins
Officer McCormack.....Loren Brett
Lucy Hunter .....Clara Adkins
Dorothy May .....Anna Holt
Mrs. Pansy Hopscotch ....Caroline Downing
Marie Ribeau.....Vera Frakes
Kloompy .....Anna Rheiner

The action takes place in a fashionable dancing academy in Chicago. Lively action precedes and follows the arrival of Grandpa from Yellow Bud, Ohio. A borrowed wife, a spoiled love affair, and the giving of dancing lessons by an insistent French dancing instructress begin the difficulties. A small-pox quarantine and a Danish maid cause diaster—almost.

The Ladies' Circle will meet Friday, at the home of Mrs. Frank E. Decoster, Pike Hill, for luncheon at one o'clock and the afternoon. Those not otherwise solicited for the luncheon will carry pastry. The afternoon will be devoted to work and a social time.

Methodist

A very good day of inspiration and attendance was observed last Sunday in the Methodist Church. The weather being mild, brought out a good crowd of people, both morning and night. At the morning service, the pastor spoke on "The Larger Vision" which he claimed was the possibility and the possession of every human individual. The sermon was constructed around the suggestion that within each one of us there is that capacity capable of unfoldment and development. The pastor cited very graphically the decided contrast between those two scriptural characters recorded in "Luke's Seventh Gospel."

The picture was that of Simon, who had invited Jesus to the feast as the "after dinner speaker", who had a comparatively narrow perspective of life and its meaning; and the poor, sinful woman who recognized her own insufficiency and the power that might, by a little encouragement, be hers. The Sunday school had its largest attendance since the beginning of the new year.

In the evening service the pastor closed the last installment in the series of story-sermons that he has been giving on "God and the Groceryman." As a fitting climax, and because the story ended in a perfectly beautiful way, provision was made for the pretty vocal solo "A Perfect Day," which was delightfully rendered by Mrs. Hiram Calef accompanied by the cello, played by the pastor, and the pipe organ played by Miss Ona Yates. It was a great story and the people showed vividly their approval and vigorous enthusiasm. It was the largest crowd that has been to the church since the present pastor has occupied its pulpit. It was pleasing to see Wallace Frost assisting the pastor in the early service preliminaries. Wallace led the congregation in song and offered the evening prayer. Much credit is due to this enterprising young man who believes that religion should be the first thing in a person's life.

One of the finest and prettiest plays that has come to Norway, "An Old Fashioned Mother" is the play that is taking up the time of the Methodist Dramatic Ensemble. This beautiful three act drama is to be the presentation of the church in the Grange Hall, Wednesday evening, April 15. Costumes appropriate, and instrumental music will be incidentals in the program arrangements.

Next Sabbath evening, March 1, there is to be given the first in a new series of "Hymn Presentations." This series has a wealth of inspiration and is a source of comfort.

Some of these hymns will be presented in pantomime. It is the intention of Rev. Mr. Lyon to bring to the attention of the people the history and the background of some of the grand old spiritual hymns of the Christian Church. The first hymn is to be given next Sunday evening. Special music. Everybody welcome.

The Ladies' Aid will serve a dinner to the public next Wednesday noon, March 4. Baked beans and American chop suey will be the foundation for the dinner.

Congregational

The Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m.; morning service, 11 a. m. The sermon topic, "The Personality of Jesus." This is the second in the series of Lenten sermons, which is a study of Jesus in his relation to individuals and society. Next week the topic will be "The Ideas of Jesus."

The Young People's Society appreciates the cooperation of those who drove their cars to Auburn last Sunday evening. This week's meeting at 6 p. m., Miss Olive Michie led devotions. Arthur Woodworth leads the discussion on World Friendship. Young people of the church are invited.

The pastor is distributing the Fellowship of Prayer. This booklet is published by the commission on Devotional Life and is designed to help us in our meditations during this season of special emphasis upon religion and life. The Gospel of St. Luke is recommended to all for personal reading during the next four weeks. Why not renew your acquaintance with this beautiful account of the Life of Jesus, written by a cultured physician who was the companion of St. Paul?

The ladies of the church met with Mrs. Groezinger on Wednesday afternoon and decided to form a reading circle with India as the subject. The first meeting will be held with Mrs. Charles Libby, on Paris Street, next Friday, March 6, at 2:30. A box of hospital supplies is being prepared for the sanitarium at Pleasant Hill, Tennessee.

Baptist

Thursday: C. E., 7:30. Topic, "Every Christian a Missionary." Leader, Ada E. Newton.

Sunday: Morning worship at 10:45, with sermon by the pastor. Bible School at 12. Evening meeting at 7. Everyone welcome.

Lawrence M. Carroll has been spending a few days in Augusta.

NORWAY LAKE

Birthday Party

James B. Frost was given a pleasant surprise party at his home at Norway Lake, Tuesday evening, Feb. 24th, the occasion being his 74th birthday. Mr. Frost, who had been about the house all day, noticed nothing other than the usual routine, until about 7:30 p. m., when guests began to arrive. Mr. Frost, much surprised and pleased, welcomed each in turn.

After the assemblage was complete, a buffet lunch was served, consisting of sandwiches, pie, cheese, cookies, fruit and candy, and last, but not least, a beautiful birthday cake, made by Mrs. Harry Goodwin and lighted with seventy-four candles.

The evening was spent in games and sociability. Shortly preceding the lunch, two original poems by Mrs. Lillian Adams were read by Mrs. Mildred Cummings. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Cummings and son, Arthur Jr., of Auburn; Arthur D. Cummings, South Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Smith and sons, Harry and Glendon; Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Goodwin, James B. Frost, Mrs. Lillian Adams and Herbert Adams Jr., all of Norway. The party broke up at a late hour, wishing Mr. Frost many happy returns.

To Our Father

You're just one more year old today:
To us, you're just as fair
As when your locks showed none of gray,
Your face, no lines of care.

You've labored in your chosen field,
Content that you should get
The simple fruitage of its yield,
With little of regret.

That others could their riches flaunt,
Far in excess of thine;
Your creed was e'er, "I only
Want but what is truly mine."

So, Father dear, this birthday praise,
And join us in its cheer;
We wish you many more birthdays,
To close each Happy Year.

—LILLIAN FROST ADAMS.

Sunday school will be held in the schoolhouse at 2:45 and preaching service at 3:30. Pastor G. H. Newton is in charge of the Bible School and Harold Haskell is the preacher. A welcome for all.

The Mothers' Club met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bachelder, Tuesday afternoon, with a good attendance. Plans were made for the benefit supper and dance to be held March 4th. After the business meeting, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Maude Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Coburn of Portland were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Trask, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Flint are both ill.

Robley Morrison was at home from his school at Pittsfield over the week end.

Miss Abbie L. Witt of Norway Center called on friends in the place, Tuesday afternoon.

Perley Snow, who has been at his brother's, Alfred Snow's, for several days, has returned to Fryeburg. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Snow carried him back, Sunday.

Mrs. Winnie Hall returned home last Thursday, after spending a few days in Boston.

NORTH BRIDGTON

Mrs. Sarah Pike Wentworth, 75, widow of the late Henry Wentworth, died Sunday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Holden Sawin of Waterford, where she was spending the winter.

She was the daughter of John C. and Eliza (Willard) Pike and was born in Waterford, July 7, 1855.

The deceased leaves four sons and two daughters, namely, John A. of North Bridgton, Mrs. Merton Lord of Rumford, Fred A. and Ernest W. Wentworth and Mrs. Holden Sawin of Waterford and Ralph D. of Harrison, two brothers, Bion and Ernest Pike of Waterford and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Wentworth will be greatly missed in the community in which she lived, as well as by her immediate family, to whom she has ever been a devoted mother. She was a good neighbor, with a kind word and sunny smile for all, and has been a quiet friend in time of need to a great many.

The funeral was held at the late home in North Bridgton, Feb. 25, with the Rev. Andrew Young in attendance. Burial beside her late husband in Elmvale cemetery at South Waterford.

BRIDGTON

One hundred and twenty-six "fathers and sons" attended the banquet at the Methodist Church, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Hi Y Club and served by the Ladies' Aid. ### SAVES LIVES OF MANY MOTHERS

Remarkable figures have just been made public showing that the lives of 10,000 women could be saved each year if expectant mothers sough medical attention early enough and received adequate maternity care. Among a total of 4,726 women receiving such care a two-thirds reduction in the prevailing death rate was recorded, according to leading life insurance statisticians who compiled the figures from the records of mothers cared for by the Maternity Center Association, 574 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Methods used to achieve this saving of mothers' lives were described by Mrs. John Sloane, President of the Maternity Center Association. "The care given these mothers," said Mrs. Sloane, "is that prescribed by a medical board of leading authorities, and includes:

"1. Examination by a physician as soon as it is known a baby is expected, and regular visits thereafter.

"2. Regulation of work, rest, exercise and diet to suit the individual mother in accordance with her physician's advice.

"3. Supplementing this with skilled medical care at the time of delivery, and during the weeks that follow providing such nursing and household help as will assure rest in bed for at least ten days and an easy and gradual return to usual activity on the advice of the doctor and after his examination."

The Maternity Center Association, an organization sponsored and supported wholly by public spirited men and women, offers without charge, leaflets containing helpful suggestions for prospective parents. Fathers as well as mothers will be interested in one entitled "A Message to Husbands—and Wives, too."

It is the people who have a plenty and can have all they want for comfort and pleasure that are the most nigardly and slow in paying. If such people had any heart inside their body that they would see to it that anyone employed by them to do their work should have their pay as soon as it was done. The money due them when kept back puts children to bed supperless or with a scant supply to satisfy them. Think of this you people who hire the poor!

Sheep Raising

"I was pleased to read the article on Sheep Raising from Andrews of East Sumner. I have wondered how people could raise sheep with conditions in the shape they now are. We cannot—in fact I got rid of mine this past summer as the bears raised havoc among them so. When one gets what the State allows them, it's too late to buy them. They are so long in getting one's pay to them. They will not put bounty enough on bears so anyone can hunt them. Why? Because they want to help the Western man, not the Maine man. If bears kill all our sheep, why they can buy from the Western sheep raisers and most likely manage to get a little dough in their own pockets. That's where our biggest fault in agriculture is. Our men that are hired to look out for our interests are such that we, "the farmers", can't get enough for a living from our farms.

"I was at a Grange meeting last spring and heard Mr. Crawford talk on Sheep, and he reckoned everything up to show just how much profit one could get from a good sheep, and he reckoned wool at either 35 or 40 cents per pound. In the course of two or three weeks, the price of wool came out at 25c. And I have always felt that he knew what the price for 1930 was, only of course it would not have made the profit so big, but the people's opinion of him would have been bigger, I think.

"It seems to be about the same with everything—apples, dairying, poultry, or sheep raising—we are just being pushed aside for someone else and I can't really see any cause for it, only so many of the high salaried half-way folks are taking all the money. There are just as many people and they all have to eat and it's a wicked shame that we can't get a fair price for our produce and they (the people in the cities and such places) be able to get our produce at a fair and decent price and we both be able to live instead of being pushed and starved on account of a few worthless money men.

—A MRS.

HOW ABOUT KILLING IN AIR?

Here is something wearing a caption of "Editorial" as found in the News and Critic. Whether written by Albert Weeks or stolen it should not waste its fragrance in such limited quarters as Belknap County, N. H., hence a place here is given.

"The death rate from automobile accidents becomes appalling from year to year. Even in little old Lasconia the shock has been felt. To say nothing of agitation coming to the press from New York and other metropolises of the situation there. The constant noise in the big cities drives many nearly distracted. Hospitals, the recently built, nurseries, etc., have to locate in isolated places in order to avoid the noise.

"The home is robbed of its dear ones. The breadwinner's life is often taken away. What are we going to do with the orphans? Old people, the deaf and sightless fall easy prey to the speeding demon. Little has been done to rid the deadly carbon monoxide that is being diffused in the air by the combustion of their engines. The scientist knows this is a deadly gas.

"In the air the situation is not as bad as the gases go out into limitless space, even then a bird might pass out once in a while unbeknown to mortal man as an effect. So it would seem that the great manufacturers, before they try to branch out so much would try to eradicate these evils in 1930 at least.

"Most cities and even towns have ordinances whereby they safeguard human health, but they seem to be letting this evil go by unnoticed. In the big cities where little children play in the streets it must be still worse. Scientific magazines have argued this for years. Now it is about time they put a law on them."

POISON IN PANTRY AS DANGEROUS AS A GUN

Holiday Case of Poisoned Fruit Cakes

A recent holiday fruit cake poison case, in which quick action by the Food, Drug, and Insecticide Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture saved from illness and perhaps death people who had bought the cakes, leads the administration to issue a warning to housewives regarding poisons in the household.

"Poisons such as garden and domestic insecticides are today almost a household necessity. They should, however, be securely locked up or be carefully stored beyond the reach of children, and they should always be kept away from food.

"A package of poison on the pantry shelf is as dangerous as a loaded gun," says Dr. Dunbar. "Someone comes along who doesn't know the package contains poison—that the gun is loaded, and the result is injury, or even death. Like precautions are essential in food stores, restaurants, and food factories."

The arsenic which came so near taking a toll of human lives during the Christmas holidays had been bought as an insecticide several years ago and had not been safely put away after use. It is supposed that one of the children finding the package of aresnic mistook it for flour and emptied it in the flour sack in the pantry.

A somewhat similar case occurred in an Indiana store some years ago. Contaminated sugar sold by the store made a number of people ill, killing two of them. The administration found that rat poison had accidentally been thrown into an open sack of sugar.

In Los Angeles, in 1926, nineteen persons became ill from eating pies containing arsenic. The baker who made the pies did not know how the arsenic got into the food. It was declared to be accidental.

Probably none of these cases would have occurred if poisons had been kept away from the food and out of the kitchen.

The Federal Caustic Poison Act requires that certain alkali and acid poisons be labelled plainly in large type to lessen the danger of accidental poisoning. However, there are many other poisons, such as those found in insecticides and some silver polishes, which are deadly if taken in sufficient quantities, and the Federal law does not require that these articles be conspicuously labelled as poisonous. Although many manufacturers have voluntarily used warning labels, or have put their poisonous preparations in containers of distinctive shape or in bottles with rough exteriors studded with knobs or points to warn the user even in the dark, poisons of the insecticide type are frequently bought in bulk form in bags that are not labelled. Arsenical insecticides may easily be mistaken for flour. Unless packages containing such poison are locked up or at least carefully segregated after use, there is danger of the poison getting into food. The cautious housewife should have a safe place in which she can store all poisons to prevent accidents.

Read the advertisements of your local merchants. You will find that merchandise can be bought as cheaply here as elsewhere.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bayrum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

The Lenten booklet, "The Fellowship of Prayer", has been distributed in the Parish. It is based upon the Gospel of Luke, and provides for a consecutive study of the life of Jesus. There is a text, a brief meditation and prayer for each day of Lent. The staff are making use of it in the Sunday services throughout the parish.

Pastor's classes are being conducted by the members of the staff. This makes it necessary that each minister shall be at one place throughout the Lenton season. Mr. Bull will be at North Waterford, Mr. Brandon at East Stoneham and Mr. Townsend at Waterford each Sunday morning until Easter. They will alternate as much as possible for the other services. It is hoped to have a church members' supper in each church during the Lenten season. The one planned for last week at Waterford had to be postponed to some later date on account of the storm. While it is hoped that the main emphasis will be upon the spiritual things, the social life will not be entirely suspended. A Circle supper and social was held in the Wilkins House, Waterford last Saturday evening.

Dinner and supper will be served in the North Waterford church vestry by the local Circle with contributions from the other Circles of the parish. ### MAINE PLAN

Campaign for Funds for Advertising Natural Resources of the State

The Maine Development Commission's 1931 cities and towns campaign for additional funds to carry on the work of advertising the natural resources, attractions and advantages of the Pine Tree State is under way.

Known the country over as the Maine Plan and widely copied by many states, co-operative advertising has assisted in building up Maine's tremendous recreational business.

"To foster interest, last year," Mr. Isola, executive secretary of the commission, said, "the Commission agreed to publish and distribute 20,000 copies of an attractive booklet on the county having the largest number of contributing towns in proportion to its total and which contributes the most money in proportion to the total valuation. Aroostook won the prize. The plan still holds for the coming year. The booklet will describe the winning county's greatest tourist attractions, its industrial opportunities, its farming, with the profusely illustrated and will list the names of all the county communities. It will receive a countrywide distribution along with the Commission's other literature."

"It is the aim of the Commission to secure the cooperation of as many as possible of the state's 500 and more cities, towns and plantations," he said. "Each contribution, however small, makes that community a part of the movement to promote the state. Growing interest in the plan is indicated by the fact that last year there were 105 cooperating communities, sixteen more than the previous year.

Names of the contributing communities will appear in the commission advertising, and will likewise be listed in a special pamphlet which is published each year.

MAINTENANCE OF RURAL LIFE

A strong plea for the maintenance of rural civilization which each year contributes the best of its youth as recruits to urban industry, was voiced by C. M. White, Chief of the Division of Markets of the Maine Department of Agriculture in an address last Thursday at the 26th Annual Conference of Grange Lecturers.

The maintaining of a rugged progressive race to furnish the energy and ability so needed in the cities, he outlined as the duty of the Grange. The mental, physical, spiritual and social needs of each community should be discovered and developed, he stated.

"For its part the city should realize its debt to the country," he said. One wonders if the farmer has not the right to expect the city and especially city industries to share the burden of expense incurred in keeping up the necessary institutions of country life. The grange he pictured as the center of the business, social, spiritual and educational life of the rural community.

Falling off of rural population he laid in part to increase in efficiency of methods of production. "A decreasing number of farmers are needed to produce ample food for all the people," he said. "However, the maintenance of schools, churches, highways and social life in rural communities will not stand a further decrease in population." As a remedy he suggested "the development of small industries particularly those which can do much of their manufacturing during the dull seasons of farming as a help to maintain a prosperous rural life."

POULTRY, BROILERS, EGGS

"When cod liver oil came into general use to prevent rickets and leg weakness, it caused a real revolution in the poultry business because chicks can be hatched in December or January, or whenever one pleases," said Charles L. Eastman, county agent for Androscoggin and Sagadahoc counties, in a recent radio address.

Continuing, he said in part: "Not over 15 years ago most people hatched during April or May. Perhaps more hatched during May than in April for the reason that it seemed necessary to get the chicks onto the ground as soon as possible to avoid loss from leg weakness.

"Cod liver oil is the thing that made the winter broilers so profitable. With the coming of the battery brooder, the broiler industry became unprofitable for many folks who did not have one. This included a large class of small poultrymen, who did not have business enough to warrant a battery brooder.

"As a result of early hatching, in March or April, pullets usually started laying in August or September at the latest, and after laying a few pullet sized eggs laid standard sized eggs during October, November, and December, when egg prices were high. This enabled poultrymen in Maine and other New England states to make a great deal more profit per bird than they did before they hatched in March or April. As soon as the majority of people began to hatch early, many more eggs were put on the market during the high prices.

"Beginning about 1925, top prices for each successive year during the months of October, November and December have not been as high. In spite of this, poultrymen made far more money. This is not so much of a paradox as it may seem because a poultryman with 100 hens who sold ten dozen eggs in November during 1914 or 1915, or perhaps even during war time, for $1.00 per dozen received $10.00 which might have been all the eggs that the birds produced during the month. Today the same poultryman that does not have 100 dozen to sell from 100 hens during November thinks his hens are not doing well; yet those 100 dozen eggs even at 50 cents per dozen bring $50.00 as compared with the $10.00 during top war prices."

THE NEW THRIFT

The old-fashioned thrift of our forefathers is taking a new lease on life. Organized, appropriately enough, just as we are apparently entering an era which will call for qualities of economy and sobriety sharply contrasting with the prominent virtues of the period which closed with the stock market crash last Fall, the Council on Economic Education in Massachusetts, has launched a campaign which in the course of time may affect every pupil in every public school in the United States. The Council's purpose is to promote the teaching in the schools first of Massachusetts and then in other states, of "personal economics", that is, how not only to save money, but how to spend it wisely and thriftily.

The schools of Brookline, Massachusetts, in a remarkable experiment which has received enthusiastic praise from the educational authorities, have for three years been developing a simple method of teaching children the essentials of what is termed "money management". The school board believes that the schools should both continue to instruct children in subjects which will enable them to earn a living, and give them in addition practical training in how to use to best advantage the living which they earn. Budgeting is taught as a matter of course. School savings have increased since the system was introduced and there has been a notable improvement in the sense of thrift shown by students not only toward saving money, clothes, school supplies and the like, but toward "using their heads" when spending their allowances.

Beginning Tuesday, Feb. 17, and continuing through Wednesday and Thursday, occurred the largest snow storm that has been known in these parts for years. In some places the drifts were more than four feet high or deep and some families have been snowed in for more than a week, waiting for the snow plow to reach them. This condition is worse than olden times, as in those days men with oxen and rollers saw to it that the roads were open for travel in one or two days at the most. This has been a wonderful winter in most ways, the crows have been with us all the time and not many mornings that we have not heard their spring-like caw, caw, caw.

Mrs. Addison Millett, who has been with her sister, Mrs. Arthur R. Fitts in Quincy, Mass., came Tuesday to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edith Greenleaf in Norway. ## ROADSIDE CAMP REGULATION

The 1927 legislature enacted rules and regulations, which are embodied in the following:

"Persons, firms or corporations conducting overnight camps, lodging places and recreational camps shall keep and maintain, or cause to be kept and maintained therein a register in which shall be inscribed the true name of each and every guest renting or occupying a room or rooms, cabins and tents. Such register shall be signed by the person renting such rooms, cabins, or tents, or by someone under his directions. The proprietor or his agent shall write opposite each name the number of room or rooms, number or name of cabin or tent assigned to and occupied by each guest; and the State license number of any automobile then being used or operated by the registrant. The proprietor or his agent shall keep and preserve the record showing the date of registration and date when the occupant of each room, cabin or tent quit and surrender the same.

"Of course, all this registration could not be had without some expense to the State, but the license fees take care of that pretty well. The work necessitated in 1930 the addition of six extra inspectors, in addition to seven district health officers and nine extra workers in the laboratory to handle the examination of samples of water obtained from the supplies of the various places. During 1930, 3598 licenses were issued, divided as follows: Boys' camps, 110; girls' camps, 92; family camps, 258; automobile camps, 460; roadside eating places and drinking places, 2678."

There is talk that the present legislature may change some of the above, therefore roadside entertainers should watch out.

The rural school of the future will be a service institution, which will contribute new vitality to practically every phase of rural life.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN DID THE KINDLY THING—THEN TACTFULLY WITHDREW

The theory that brotherly love demands indiscriminate social intermingling of races, types and degrees of intelligence without regard to their congeniality is one of those idealistic formulas that never fails of shipwreck on the rock of Human Nature when put to the test.

Brotherly love unmistakeably demands justice, sympathy and consideration for the other fellow, whatever his race, creed, color or mentality. But when you try to stretch its requirements to include artificial intimacy between ill-mated groups you institute a process of brotherly embroilment.

Human contacts fall into many classes and few souls make ideal companions in every relationship. Business groups that pull together to perfection often have little in common outside of business hours. Church groups that co-operate without a trace of friction often redistribute themselves, through natural gravitation, at the church doors. Clubmates in general would make poor team-mates in many other fields of activity. And how many members of your bridge group do you really like to visit for a week end? How many friends of any kind could share the same roof with you for six successive months without a clash of interests? Do you and your wife see alike in all things with your brother and his wife? Isn't there is a deadline with every friend and relative beyond which greater intimacy leads to less good will?

The black man, the white, the red, and the yellow can work things out together only as each respects the other's right to privacy beyond a certain point.

And as between the man or the race that objects to intrusion and the one that butts in, uninvited, the latter is by far the more serious offender. For freedom from intrusion is an essential condition of peace—obtrusiveness a certain means of friction.

Each race owes the other respect, good will, generosity, scrupulous fairness—and the right to call its soul its own. Economic necessity will force whatever relationships are inescapable, and natural selection will induce such further contacts, if any, as may be desirable. If their mutual dealings within these limits are just and kindly, a lasting bond of friendship will result, but the minute that one of the four intrudes upon those aspects of another's life which that other prefers to enjoy by itself, there will be antagonism.

True intimacy is based on the mutual attraction of congenial spirits. To approach it by crashing the gate of your neighbors' sanctuary is quite the surest way to make it forever impossible between you. —Credit.

George Washington

Once there was a little boy
Who didn't want a single toy,
But a hatched sharp and new;
And this is what he liked to do.
To cut the little shrubs and sticks.
And never leave them as they were fixed,
He liked to eat things good like pie,
And he never told a lie.
One day he went in the garden, you see,
And what! He chopped his father's cherry tree.
He wondered and wondered what his father would say.
He wondered and wondered all the rest of the day.
That night father looked in his garden to see
If anything had happened to his cherry tree,
And when he went out, what did he see?
Someone had chopped his cherry tree!
He went to George, said, "Who did it and why?"
George said, "I did it." (You see he didn't lie).
He told him just how he did it and why,
His father said, "I'm glad you didn't lie."

Teaming to the village is nearly done, we fear. The roads are scraped down so close that a little sun makes bare ground, although there is a pile of snow outside the roads.

CASCO

Robert Ban passed away very suddenly at his home in Newark, New Jersey, after a brief illness. He was the treasurer of Cogswell & Boulter Co., of New Jersey. He married Blanche Leach Kemp and had been a yearly visitor at her former home, on Leach Hill, for a number of years.

Ellwood Thorne and Milton Hancock are convalescing from the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Leach and family visited Mr. and Mrs. George Akers of Auburn, Sunday.

The drama given by the Pennell Institute dramatic club of Gray, was very good and was well attended. There was a social after the drama.

EAST OXFORD

Edwin O. Sands, Arthur M. Thayer, Calvin E. Morse and Edgar Strother were in Portland, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Rhodes of Saco spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Whitman.

Miss Dorothea Whitman was the guest of Miss Esther Caldwell, Sunday night.

Mrs. Belle Strother has two nuthatches, chickadees and several starlings join her bird family. Mrs. Ethel Sands has a flock of goldfinches and several grosbeaks join hers.

Almon Cairns and "Ike" Morey of South Paris have been hauling hay from F. E. Whitman's.

POLITENESS PAYS

The presence of police, either local or state, on our streets should have no terrors for anybody who is a law-abiding citizen. Rather should they be assurance of safety and protection. The police are the servants of the people, expected to give polite and efficient service to those requiring it.

If they inspire fear or apprehension to those who are conscious of having done no wrong, it is because they have usurped a domineering attitude which the donning of a uniform sometimes inspires.

In dealing with the public, police officers are required to exercise a great amount of discretion. They are expected to be polite and courteous and to answer all questions with civility. Rather should they go out of their way to be of service to a stranger instead of bawling them out for some slight infringement of local rules.

Many states are coming to see the wisdom of encouraging a "friendly" spirit in their police officers. They are instructed to render polite service to tourists, never to speak to them impatiently to instruct them in regard to local rules and regulations rather than annoying them by harsh reprimands when they are unknowingly broken.

The great bulk of citizens are law-abiding, though thoughtless. They do not break rules deliberately, but are much more likely to observe them if pleasantly requested to do so.

SNOW NO HINDRANCE HERE

Winter motoring in New England is free of serious hindrance from snow. Every year more miles of highways are kept cleared, and it is now possible to motor anywhere in New England without danger of being delayed. It is estimated that a total of 36,000 miles of roads is being kept open in New England this year.

In Maine and Vermont snow removal is done by the towns, with the state sharing the expense. In the other four states the highway departments keep all snow removed from state highway systems, and additional clearing is done locally by towns.

Judge Dow Resigned

Plans to Return to Private Practice

Judge Robert B. Dow has resigned as judge of the Norway Municipal Court and will return to private practice, April 1, should his successor be appointed before that date.

His main reason for resigning is that the financial return from the office and what practice he is allowed to engage in does not constitute sufficient remuneration. He entered upon his duties the last of December, succeeding Judge W. F. Jones, who had the office for twenty-four years.

Governor Gardiner is accepting the resignation, expressed regrets in a letter to the judge.

His successor has not yet been appointed, but it is understood one is seriously considering the matter.

High School

Honor Parts Announced—Harry Lyon Spoke—Class Parts

Friday morning at assembly the honor parts were announced. The Valedictorian of this year's Senior class is Albert Lafrance. He is president of the Commercial Club, was vice-president of his class in his Sophomore year, and President of his class in his Junior year. He has won his letter for the past two years in the County and State Typewriting contests. He is a diligent student and is popular with his classmates.

Francis Hutchins is Salutatorian. He was president of his class in his Sophomore year, and has been a member of the track squad for the past two years. He is taking college course and plans to attend Bates College next year. Both of these boys are members of the Cadiscens Board.

Besides these two, there are four more who averaged above ninety. They are: Elizabeth Conary, Alice Lafrance, Charlotte Longley and Samuel Favor. The following received an average of about eighty-five: Rita Linnell, Marion Thomas, Violet Upton, Casper Curtis and Ruth Stearns.

His address, relating to the incidents and experiences while on this flight, was exceptionally interesting and very much enjoyed by the student body.

The boys of the Senior history and civics classes attended the town meeting, Monday morning and afternoon.

The boys' basket ball team was selected by the committee sponsoring the Jordan High School Small Schools Tournament to represent Norway. In the preliminary game, Norway plays Livermore Falls at 4:15 Friday afternoon. Other schools in the tournament are Mexico, Livermore Falls, Jay, Standish, Scarboro, South Paris, and Winthrop. School will be dismissed a little earlier, Friday afternoon, to enable those who are going to Lewiston to get there in time.

ECHOES FROM TOWN MEETING

Some interested residents of Norway who attended town meeting, Monday, discussed afterward, some of the "doings" and one questioned in regard to grading the new high school lot, why it would not be a good idea to put the high school boys to work to assist in making the grounds more attractive? Wouldn't it create good school spirit and make them feel they were responsible for its better appearance? Think it over!

It was also suggested that if the boys and girls would not leave so much paper and candy wrappings on the sidewalk in front of the school grounds, it would look less cluttered. Why not form a broom brigade and sweep off the accumulation of several years gravel?

Did you ever see a dirtier sidewalk?
